PREFACE

How to Use this Volume

THIS Citator Volume and the Current Law Statute Citator contains all the information necessary to make either a quick last minute check to see that nothing has been missed or an exhaustive search which will produce all the material which has accumulated in the past thirty years of legal development.

It contains a formidable mass of data but is so arranged that with very slight application the required answer, positive or negative, can be produced in the minimum time.

The full value of this work can only be obtained by using the pamphlet "How to Use Current Law," a new edition of which was sent free to subscribers during 1976 and is always available from the publishers. Here we can only deal shortly with the important features of this volume.

The Case Citator, which is, of course, arranged in alphabetical order, can produce instantly the following types of information:

(a) the full name with all contemporaneous reports of any case reported between 1947 and 1976.

(b) the reference to the paragraph (or paragraphs) in the Current Law Series, where such case is digested. If the reference has a date, e.g. 76/296, it is to the Year Book of that year. If there is no date, e.g. 4405, the case is to be found in the Current Law Consolidation, 1947 to 1951;

(c) the history of any case, of whatever date, which has been judicially considered between 1947 and 1976; thus the case of Glenister v. Glenister [1945] P. 30 is shown to have been applied in 1947, twice in 1949, in 1952, 1953, 1956 and 1958; to have been distinguished in 1947, 1951 and 1953; to have been considered in 1961; while observations therein were both disagreed with and approved in 1947;

(d) whether a case has been commented on in one or more of the legal periodicals. Thus Read v. Lyons [1947] A.C. 156, was dealt with in the Law Quarterly Review, the Modern Law Review, the Law Times and the Conveyancer and Property Lawyer.

(e) whether a case has been modified by statute as, e.g., Newstead v. London Express [1940] 1 K.B. 377, or overruled, as, e.g., Chapman v. Chapman [1954] A.C. 429;

(f) whether a case has been affected in any other way, e.g., by a statutory instrument, see, e.g., Demetriou v. Demetriou [1950] P. 261.

This Current Law Case Citator together with the Statute Citator is offered as the MASTER KEY to ALL the LAW from EVERY SOURCE.
